

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention relates to the use of an intumescent material as a sensor, actuator, and fixing means for movable elements in the field of fire and smoke protection.